

Non-farm output per worker is a broad measure of labor productivity. Within the national debate on jobs growth, we believe that this is an important statistic that most parties are ignoring.